

The mission of Research Compliance Consulting is to provide project assistance to college and university research administration, particularly in areas related to federal and state research regulations

Our approach:

- Responsive to your specific requests and concerns
- In consultation and collaboration with you
- Tailored to your specific institutional context – your research portfolio and your institution's administrative culture, and crafted in your institutional format and voice
- Embracing the concept that a compliance program is a supportive partner working to enhance a vital facet of quality within research enterprise operations. In this approach audit is an important tool but not a compliance program, and monitoring programs emphasize helping research teams do it right.

Subject expertise:

- Research compliance program design and operation
- Research policy and administration including stem cell research, tissue and data banking, data ownership and management, etc.
- Human subjects protection programs
- Humane animal care and use programs
- Individual conflict of interest
- Institutional conflict of interest
- Export controls
- Scientific integrity
- Sponsored research topics including effort reporting
- Clinical research topics including contracting, budgeting and billing
- HIPAA and research interfaces
- Institutional response to proposed new federal or state research regulations

A sampling of our services:

- Assistance in designing and establishing an institutional compliance program incorporating the classic elements outlined in federal guidance
- Analysis of specific regulatory or ethical topics and their operational implications
- Background on peer institution approaches to research issues
- Presentations to senior administrators and boards, to faculty, to staff, to other stakeholders
- Facilitation of research administrative task groups
